Information for Applicants

The aim of the course is to provide you with the specific knowledge, skills and the appropriate use of these to participate in the safe transfer of critically ill infants and children between and within hospitals.

The course is intended for medical and senior nursing staff who are involved in the transfer of infants and children. Applicants should have paediatric basic life support skills and be in posts that give them regular contact with sick children. The course will appeal most to those who have already undertaken a PALS, APLS, NALS/NLS or equivalent course, although this is not essential.

An experienced faculty of neonatologists, paediatricians, anaesthetists and clinical nurse specialists teach on the course with a minimum of lectures, most teaching taking place in small groups with defined objectives and semi-structured dialogue. The course is supported by a detailed handbook, which will be sent to you prior to the course.
